

Indiana Waiver Services Comparison

Indiana has two main waiver programs that provide supports and services for individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities. The waivers have specific qualification criteria, and you must complete detailed applications with the Indiana Division of Disabilities and Rehabilitative Services to be approved for service. Once approved, you will be able to use those services with a state-approved Community Rehabilitation Provider (CRP).

Carey Services is an approved CRP in multiple North Central Indiana counties.

Community Integration & Habilitation Waiver Services

The Community Integration & Habilitation Waiver can provide a range of services, each of which is selected based on your specific needs using a person-centered planning process and following CIH waiver criteria. All CIH Waiver services must be delivered in home- or community-based settings by an approved Medicaid provider, but a provider might choose not to offer specific services.

The current state-approved services include:
